

New Level Safety Group

New Level Safety was established in 1998, during which time we have created an ethos of working with a variety of industries worldwide, producing bespoke health & safety solutions to suit individual client needs.

In partnership with the New Level Safety Group, Safety First have supported and delivered all of our Health & Safety training since 2003, during which time they have supported a range of clients including construction, media, I.T. and Government agencies, achieving excellent results.

The continuous evaluation and general feedback from our clients has always been very positive, with particular emphasis on understanding the subject matter, energy in overall delivery and continuously supporting individual client's needs with a cheerful and professional approach.

New Level Safety Group are only too pleased to recommend Safety First as a thoroughly professional first class training organisation, whereby your expectations will be exceeded and satisfaction assured.
